*JBT Food Processing Technology & Training Center
Sandusky, Ohio*

“University of Further Processing”

Course Description

A course designed to extend the student's understanding of coating, frying, and related support equipment including a brief introduction to cooking and freezing systems. The variables of continuous processing are introduced and explained. The relationships among variables are also explored using both real-life examples and data gathered in our Food Processing Technology Center.

Who Should Attend?

This course is particularly suited for food scientists, technical managers, and production personnel who are, or are expected to become involved in coating food products, including product development, quality assurance, process control and troubleshooting. It will be equally helpful for non-technical managers who need a basic understanding of the technical complexity of coating and frying processes.
